

Welcome to Living Hollis Style

Living hollis style was born from my desire to share my knowledge of clean beauty, health and wellness. It's a place where I get to authentically share the things that matter the most to me: family, healthy living and clean beauty.

I am a lifestyle blogger, health & wellness advocate, and Beautycounter director dedicated to helping you glow from the inside out.

Supporting people and businesses in my community is a passion of mine.

Businesses plays a vital role in the diversity and vibrancy of our community, it's exciting to work with businesses that resonate with me and spread the word my online community.

'I truly believe everyone can do a little better every day and make a positive impact along the way.'
